Prunus serrulata 'Ichiyo' is often top-grafted and can attain a height of 6 m. The tree has a flattened, broad, vase-shaped crown. The leaves emerge a weak brownish-green, turning dark green later. The tree flowers from mid-April to mid-May, producing double pale pink flowers. These are approx. 5 cm in diameter and grow together in long-stemmed hanging bunches. For parks and public gardens. Its wide crown makes 'Ichiyo' less suitable for streets. It does not stand up to wet soil. Winter hardiness zone: 6a
